STATEN ISLAND HAPPENINGS.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Skinner has handed down a decision in the proceedings brought by citizens of Port Richmond to remove Trustees George H. Janneman and Charles H. Val from office for alleged mismanagement and arbi-trary actions. The request of the citizens is granted and the men are removed. In his opinion Superin-tendent Skinner says that the Board did not do without cause. He also says that the fact that Trustee Charles H. Ingalls had not had notice of the meeting made the action illegal. He speaks of the purchase of disinfectants from the mother-inlaw of Janneman at a greater rate than the market price, which was not denice. In addition to these facts the superintendent declares that he is convinced that the general disorder in the school was due to the interference of the two men, who had largely usurped the professional duties of the teachers. The only one of the trustees left is Charles H. Ingalls, who was the minority of the Board and who was completely ignored.

Two of them, however, stood talking on the sidewalk in front of the extreme west window of the bank. They were tall men, and must have in tercepted a good deal of light intended for the band some window. A policeman came along, acc panied by a thick brogue. In blunt terms he ord the two men to "move on." The men, who we well dressed, insisted on their rights and became dignant. The policeman was obdurate, and f exclaiming, "The bank don't want people at in front of its windows," he compelled the tw to walk away.

A stout real estate dealer across the street declared his wish that the policeman would "tackle" him and he'd show him, etc., but he said it so that the policeman did not hear him. One of the men ordered to move on said: "If it hadn't been Saturday, May have defled the policeman. He would have locked me up, and, it being Saturday, I would have locked difficulty in getting bail. We'll have this thing saturday, the curbatch of the same was down or the curbatone men will win. The question, may incidentally be determined regarding the right to stand in the street or on the sidewalks in front of the Real Estate Exchange at noon.

SETH LOW GIVES HIS DECISION.

Seth Low, president of Columbia College, who tween the New-York Typothetae and Typograph Union No. 6, has rendered his decision. He ma of Typographical Union No. 6, and they reached this city yesterday. The differences which Presi-dent Low was requested to arbitrate grew out of a strike of the employes of J. J. Little & Co., in Lafayette Place. The strikers were members of Typographical Union No. 6, and J. J. Little & Co.

one of the firms of employing printers th 9 the employes of J. J. Little & Co. presented to the firm certain demands, seven in number, which became matters of controversy. On April 24 the press ened to strike.

Joint committees of the New-York Typothetae and Typographical Union No. 6 were appointed to settle the differences, if possible and President Low, on his decision Mr. Low says that, as the joint committees settled four of the seven questions in dispute between themselves, there were only three left for him to decide. They were as follows:

be done entirely on piece or on time.

Demand No. 4—That all cuts coming within the Demand No. 4—That all cuts coming within the measure shall be given to the compositors, and if cuts are not in the office when copy is given out "blood" shall be given instead.

Demand No. 7—That book and job rooms shall be recognized as card offices.

President Low says that both sides presented their cases to him and also sent him briefs. He says he appreciates the fair way in which both sides presented their cases, and their patience in explaining clearly to him the meaning of the technical terms used.

The third demand he grants, as he says that the Typothetae had agreed to concede all except standing matter or electrotype matter. He decides that he cannot grant demand No. 4, because he thinks it would not be fair, as somebody must pay for cuts before they come into offices, and he does not think the publisher should be compelled to pay twice for them.

He also decides that he cannot arbitrate demand.
